STUDIO 7

KING'S MEADOW CAMPUS

FEATURES AND BENEFITS

The studio spaces are incredibly versatile and provide the perfect blank canvas ready to be used in a purely functional manner or transformed into something exceptional, turning any event into an amazing experience that will inspire and engage. However, you use it, the choice is yours.

Based in the heart of the UK, King's Meadow Campus was acquired by the University of Nottingham in 2005 and accommodates many of the University's internal departments as well as a studio spaces, Studio 7.

From 1983 until 2005, the building was originally home to the ITV studio complex called "East Midlands Television Centre" and later "Carlton Studios".

During the 1980/90's, iconic productions such as The Price is Right, Family Fortunes, Supermarket Sweep, Celebrity Square and Bullseye were filmed here.

This studio space presents a huge contrast to the rest of our offering which is more traditionally located within teaching buildings, halls of residence and sport centres across all three campuses.
